Aletha Solter, Ph.D.
Provides parents with simple, easy-to-use tools to build a solid foundation for children to say "no" to drugs. Organized by age group, the handy 100 tips will show parents how to help their children to feel good about themselves without an artificial high.

Joseph A. Califano, Jr.
Based on nearly two decades of research at The National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University, this book offers advice and information on how to prepare your child for the crucial decision-making moments and on many of the most daunting parenting topics

Madeline Levine, Ph.D.
Identifies toxic cultural influences and well-intentioned, but misguided, parenting practices that are detrimental to a child's healthy self-development. Her practical advice provides solutions that enable parents to help their emotionally troubled "star" child cultivate an authentic sense of self.

C. Kuhn, S. Swartzwelder and W. Wilson
Fully revised and updated, this handbook includes the most recent discoveries about drugs and the unique effects of some drugs on the adolescent brain. Buzzed provides a clear understanding of how drugs work and the consequences of their use.

Anthony E. Wolf, Ph.D.
Dr. Wolf points out that while the basic issues of adolescence and the relationships between parents and their children remain much the same, today's teenagers navigate a faster, less clearly anchored world.

Nan Henderson
Filled with research summaries on how to foster a resilient overcoming in the face of adversity, suggestions for practical applications of the research, examples of successful programs and practices, and individual stories of resilience in the face of abuse, trauma, crises, stress.

Peter L. Benson, Ph.D.
Grounded in new research with thousands of teenagers and parents, Sparks offers a step-by-step approach to helping teenagers discover their unique gifts, and works for all families, no matter their economic status, parenting situation, or ethnic background.

Katharine Sadler, M.Ed.
Hands-on guide explains why youth abuse drugs, how to identify signs of substance abuse, and how to deal with the difficulties of this destructive behavior. Teachers, counselors, and parents can all benefit from the helpful advice in this realistic look at working with kids and drugs in the 21st century.

Malcolm Gauld

Offers a plan to help the new college student complete Year #1 and is a short, non-preachy, fun, and tad irreverent primer that can help you get off to a strong start toward the 'best four years of your life.'

Anthony E. Wolf, Ph.D.

A practical guide to raising and understanding teenagers. It offers frustrated moms and dads humorous, dialog-based advice and techniques for what to say and not to say when parenting teens today.

L. Kastner, Ph.D. , J. Wyatt, Ph.D.

New brain research offers new insight into the best way to connect with teens and shows parents how to stay calm and cool-headed while dealing with hot-button issues -- with clear, easy-to-follow suggestions for setting limits while maintaining a close and loving relationship.

Michael Riera, Ph.D.

Will help frustrated parents reconnect with their teenager. The first step is realizing that inside every teen resides two very different people-the regressed child and the emergent adult.

F. Jenson, MD, A. Ellis Nutt

Offers a revolutionary look at the science of the adolescent brain, providing remarkable insights that translate into practical advice for both parents and teenagers.

Peter L. Benson, Ph.D.

Shows all adults that positive adult-child relationships are one of the most important factors affecting a young person's development. This handbook highlights hopeful actions adults can take to have a positive impact on a young person's life.

Jane Nelson, Ed.D.

The key to positive discipline is not punishment, but mutual respect. Give your child the tools he or she needs for a well-adjusted life with this proven treasure trove of practical advice.

Michael Riera, Ph.D.

Riera tackles some of the newest issues facing parents and teens, and gives a second look to the old standbys— alcohol and drugs, academics, sex and dating, sports and extracurriculars, eating disorders, making friends, single parenting, divorce, and more.

Lynn Lyons, LICSW

With anxiety at epidemic levels among our children this book offers a contrarian yet effective approach to help children and teens push through their fears, worries, and phobias to ultimately become more resilient, independent, and happy.

Trisha M. Samuel

Addresses issues and anxieties that parents and children moving on to secondary school have. The book is good for parents to read through with their child or for parents to read on their own and discuss with their child.

The Center for Motivation and Change

This guide will help: How to react when your child has been using substances and when he has not been using; How to co-parent and collaborate as effectively and smoothly as possible; Getting more of what you want to see from your child and less of what you don't; How to talk to your child so that you are more likely to be heard; How to take care of yourself all along the way.
